

PRESIDENT HARDING ENJOYING BRIEF VACATION IN FLORIDA.

The President, after his strenuous work at the national capital, has taken a brief respite from the cares of state and is here seen arriving at St. Augustine, Fla., where he was to be the guest of Mr. Edward B. McLean on the latter's houseboat. With him were Mrs. Harding and some members of his Cabinet. At left is Secretary Weeks standing beside Mrs. Harding. The President is chatting with Mrs. McLean.

BANK OF IRELAND HANDED OVER TO GUARDIANSHIP OF IRISH FREE STATE.

An event of historical significance was the recent transfer of the guardianship of the Bank of Ireland in Dublin from the British troops who formerly were in charge to the forces of the new Irish Provisional Government. Until recently it was protected by barbed wire barricades. A large throng had assembled on College Green, and enthusiastic applause greeted the transfer.
